CONTENTS

A Controversy about the Historicization of National Socialism, by MARTIN BROSZAT/SAUL FRIEDLÄNDER 1

Between Historical Myth and Revisionism?: The Third Reich from the Perspective of 1980, by ERNST NOLTE 49

A Past That Will Not Pass Away (A Speech It Was Possible to Write, But Not to Present), by ERNST NOLTE 65

A Kind of Indemnification: The Tendencies toward Apologia in German Research on Current History, by JÜRGEN HABERMAS 75

To Condemn and to Understand: A Turning Point in German Historical Remembrance, by CHRISTIAN MEIER 93

The Miserable Practice of the Insinuators: The Uniqueness of the National-Socialist Crime Cannot be Denied, by EBERHARD JÄCKEL 107

Nolte and Revisionism, by ISRAEL GUTMAN 115

Singularity and Its Relativization: Changing Views in German Historiography on National Socialism and the "Final Solution," by OTTO DOV KULKA 151

The Romanian Way of Solving the "Jewish Problem" in Bessarabia and Bukovina, June–July 1941, by JEAN ANCEL 187

Provincial Police Reports: New Insights into Hungarian Jewish History, 1941–1944, by MÁRIA SCHMIDT 233

Jewish and Hungarian Armed Resistance in Hungary, by ROBERT ROZETT 269

Letters from Zbaszyn, introduction by JERZY TOMASZEWSKI 289

Relations between Jews and Poles during the Holocaust — New and Old Approaches in Polish Historiography, by SHMUEL KRAKOWSKI 317

Poor Poles Look at the Ghetto, by JAN BLOŃSKI 341

To Jan Bloński in Reply, by WLADYSLAW SILA-NOWICKI 357

The "Just" and the "Passive," by TERESA PREKEROWA 369

Polish Reasons and Jewish Reasons, by JERZY TUROWICZ 379

The Impact of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising on Jewish Resistance in France, by ADAM RAYSKI 389

"To the Righteous among the Nations Who Risked Their Lives to Rescue Jews," by MORDECAI PALDIEL 403

The Churches and the Nazi Persecution of the Jews — a Review, by IAN KERSHAW 427